Faculty of Human Sciences

Characterized by cultural, spiritual, and religious diversity, the Faculty of Human Sciences contributes through the variety of its programs to the spiritual and religious development as well as to the greater welfare of individuals, groups, and communities. Our programs include such diverse areas as Group Facilitation, Social Communications, Conflict Studies, Pastoral Studies, Mission Studies and Inter-Religious Dialogue, as well as Counselling and Spirituality.

These programs, which are offered for the most part in both French and English, aim to prepare experts who will have solid training allowing them to understand the spiritual, psychological, cultural, and religious dimensions of individuals, groups, and communities.

These programs are addressed not only to those wishing to acquire training in one or another of the above-mentioned areas, also to those who appreciate values and justice, and are eager to carry a message of hope to their own communities.

CENTRE FOR COUNSELLING

The Centre for Counselling is a training unit affiliated with the Faculty of Human Sciences of Saint Paul University. The Centre opened its doors in 1974. Students complete their practicum within the Master of Arts Program in Counselling and Spirituality. The Centre fulfills three functions: it provides counselling services (individual and marital/couple) both in French and in English in the Ottawa-Gatineau area; it also provides training to students in the Master of Arts Program in Counselling and Spirituality; and it promotes research in counselling and spirituality.

General Descriptions of the Programs

COMMUNICATIONS SOCIALES

The Communications sociales programs are offered in French only.

CONFLICT STUDIES

The Bachelor's and Master's Programs in Conflict Studies at Saint Paul University offer students the theoretical and methodological tools to understand the causes of ethnic and religious conflicts as well as the conditions and interventions that limit their spread and assist in their resolution. Our professors and students have diverse but complementary intellectual backgrounds. They come from all regions of Canada and from many countries, speak different languages and belong to different religious traditions. They share a passion for understanding social conflict and seek mutual understanding.

Career Opportunities

Graduates in Conflict Studies will be able to work as mediators, negotiators, peacebuilders, conflict analysts, conflict resolution trainers and intervention project managers. Conflict resolution specialists in the workplace are in demand within the public and quasi-public sectors. This tendency is currently spreading to encompass Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) as well as the private sector and on the international scene.

COUNSELLING AND SPIRITUALITY / HUMAN RELATIONS AND SPIRITUALITY

At the undergraduate level, the program allows the acquisition of fundamental theoretical knowledge in psychology and spirituality. Graduate level training aims to develop counsellors who are competent and able to help individuals define realistic goals, live according to their values, make sound decisions, plan action, cope with failure, with separation, with divorce, to help individuals manage their emotions, acquire the capacity for relationships, and develop a sense of respect for self and others.

Career Opportunities

The training provided at the undergraduate level prepares students for work in community and ecclesiastical organizations as facilitators and trainers. The bachelor with a major in human relations and spirituality also prepares students for potential admission to the Master of Arts program in Counselling and Spirituality.

The training provided at the graduate level allows students to work in various agencies providing counselling intervention and/or in private practice.

Group Dynamics

The Group Dynamics program offered in French is no longer accepting new admissions. Since January 2008, new students can only register in the group facilitation courses available in French or English.

Students already admitted in the Group Dynamics program in French will have registration priority for the courses.

MISSION STUDIES AND INTERRELIGIOUS DIALOGUE

The program in Mission Studies and Interreligious Dialogue offers an interdisciplinary formation with a view to increasing one's knowledge of, respect for, and sharing in the faith and values of others. At the same time, the program deepens one's own religious beliefs. The program offers opportunities for discovering one's own identity from a new perspective, and for living harmoniously with other religions. The program also provides the resources for professional development and future employment.

Career Opportunities

This program trains students for the following careers: youth ministry, academic counselor, missionary, religious instructor, international assistance advisor, researcher in interreligious issues, community development agent and parish assistant.

MASTER OF ARTS IN COUNSELLING AND SPIRITUALITY (45 CREDITS WITH THESIS, 39 CREDITS WITH RESEARCH SEMINAR)

Before 2008, the MA program in Counselling and Spirituality was entitled MA in Pastoral Sciences. Aside from the change of title, the program remains substantially the same in terms of training and theoretical work.

Candidates for the M.A. in Counselling and Spirituality must demonstrate reasonable competence in one of the two concentrations offered at the Faculty. This requires a satisfactory standing in the course work and practica. The total number of credits required of students in the non-thesis option is 39: 21 credits in theoretical courses in theology and social sciences, 15 credits in professional practice (practica, professional ethics, and personal and integrative seminars), and 3 credits for the research seminar.

The total number of credits required in the thesis option is 45: 18 credits in theoretical courses in theology and social sciences, 15 credits in professional practice (practica, ethical issues and personal and integrative seminars), and 12 credits for the thesis.

This two-year program features three areas of concentration and comprises five full time terms, including a Summer term:

- Individual Counselling;
- Marital/couple Counselling;
- Spiritual Care.

ADMISSION PROCEDURES SPECIFIC TO THE PROGRAM

Additional documents required for admission:

1. Detailed transcripts of previous university records;
2. Three letters of recommendation (academic, professional, and personal) on special forms. These letters must be written by trustworthy persons who know the candidate well and are able to assess his or her work;
3. An autobiographical questionnaire completed by the candidate and outlining his or her motivations for requesting admission into this program, his or her projects, and all previous pastoral and work experience. This document remains strictly confidential;
4. A criminal record check is required for the practicum in hospitals;
5. All requests for advanced standing (cf. section on General Regulations and Specific Requirements);
6. Evidence of language proficiency: language testing. The Faculty requires evidence of language proficiency when the candidate's native tongue is neither English nor French.

NB: An interview is required for admission to the program.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS SPECIFIC TO THE PROGRAM

1. an Honours Bachelor's degree or its equivalent;
2. 12 credits of theology or religious studies at university level;
3. 48 credits in psychology, sociology, social work, health sciences, theology or in related fields such as, but not exclusively, animation, social communications, mission sciences or conflict studies.

Among the 48 credits:

- a. for the concentration in Counselling (individual and/or marital/couple): at least 18 credits in psychology, and at least another 6 credits which can be in psychology, sociology or social work;
  - b. for the concentration in Spiritual Care: at least 12 credits in psychology, at least 6 credits in sociology, and at least another 6 credits which can be in psychology, in sociology or in social work.
4. Applicants must have a minimum 70% ("B") average in the Honours Bachelor's degree and the credits mentioned under points a and b above. The latter (credits) can be included in the Honours Bachelor.

Applicants who lack the necessary qualifications in theology or religious studies may be admitted to a qualifying year at Saint Paul University. Students wishing to complete this qualifying year at another university are advised to have their program approved by the Faculty of Human Sciences.

The academic record, maturity and motivation of the candidates, as well as their experience in the field of pastoral activity are additional credentials considered by the admissions committee. Candidates will also be required to pass an interview and write a report describing the interaction that will have taken place during the interview.

COLLABORATIVE PROGRAM IN WOMEN'S STUDIES AT THE MASTER'S LEVEL

The collaborative program in women's studies at the master's level is designed for master's students in arts, education, health sciences, law, social sciences and counselling and spirituality who have an interest in women's studies. These students combine advanced studies in their particular discipline with analyses from a women's studies perspective. The degree awarded is a master's degree in the chosen discipline with "specialization in women's studies".

Students should normally apply for acceptance in the women's studies collaborative program when they apply for admission to the master's program in counselling and spirituality. For further details, please consult the women's studies brochure of the Faculty of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies.
