Office of Research and Ethics Services
recherche-research@ustpaul.ca
Telephone: 613-236-1393
1-800-637-6859
Ext. 2312

The Glasmacher Lectures present Christoph Theobald

Print this page

The Glasmacher Lectures present

« Vatican II: A Vision for the Future, a Pedagogy of Faith, a Way to Resolve Particular Questions »
Christoph Theobald

Thursday, September 27, 2012
Auditorium in Guigues Building
7:00 p.m.

Entrance is free

As part of the Glasmacher lectures, Saint Paul University is pleased to present Christoph Theobald, SJ, Professor of Fundamental and Dogmatic Theology (Centre Sèvres, Paris). The conference will take place this Thursday, September 27, 2012 at 7:00 p.m. in the Auditorium in the Guigues building. Entrance is free.

His lecture « Vatican II: A Vision for the Future, a Pedagogy of Faith, a Way to Resolve Particular Questions » will illustrate how the corpus of the Council's teaching present new avenues of transmission enabling present and future generations to envision the future of the Church. The event program and registration can be found here.

The Glasmacher Lectures fund the invitation of distinguished researchers whose presentations lead to reflection and to deeper thinking about social issues in order to offer new reflections on the transformations taking place in the world today.

SHARE

Other Links

» Relationships Matter presents: "50 Shades" of Change - Steps Towards Personal Growth and Fulfilment
» The Centre for Pastoral Formation and Spirituality presents a Saturday Seminar
» Ottawa Dialogues: Choosing To Befriend The Stranger
» Mark your calendar: Open House 2012
» Integral Christian Formation (The session will be given in French)