GENERAL INFORMATION

ADMISSION APPLICATIONS TO THIS PROGRAM WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED
FOR 2024-2025 ACADEMIC YEAR

The Program at a Glance

In this program, you'll explore emerging social challenges and determine the best course of action from a practical and moral point of view.

This includes

- » Identifying and understanding social issues and their ethical aspects
- » Evaluating a range of responses to those issues
- » Designing political and policy interventions guided by moral arguments
- » Making decisions that lead to more ethical outcomes

The program incorporates aspects of ethics, political science and policy studies to create a well-rounded and practical foundation for future leaders and decision-makers.

The knowledge and skills gained in this program can be applied to a number of current issues. For example, encouraging ethical media practices, guiding ethical principles in emerging technologies, and developing policies that benefit people and the environment.

Who Should Apply?

This program welcomes all individuals who are kept up at night by the daily news but who hold out hope that the world can be improved through practical reasoning.

Internships and Research Opportunities

As a student, you will gain real-world experience with two internships in the public service and/or non-governmental organizations.

In partnership with the school's Research Centre in Public Ethics and Governance, this program also offers you the unique opportunity to work with professors and contribute to ongoing research projects.

Career Opportunities

This program will prepare you by providing you with the knowledge, critical thinking and analysis skills you need to excel in a number of work settings, including: health care, law, policy research and development, as well as social justice.

Graduates of this program have gone on to the following career paths:

- » Ethics advisor in the public sector, NGOs and hospitals
- » Law
- » Policy analyst
- » Humanitarian worker
- » Graduate school in a number of humanitarian fields
