Saint Paul University's Orientation Week Begins its Programming!

Ottawa, September 4th 2012 – Saint Paul University's academic year begins today. Taking advantage of the excitement surrounding the unveiling of its new brand identity, the University, thanks to the commitment of its faculty and staff, welcomes its students, totally imbued with the spirit of the theme for Orientation 2012:

A WORLD TO DISCOVER!

The University offers a range of workshops until September 21st to promote better integration of students into university life. A new Student Success Centre offering support services and assistance in various areas such as career or personal counselling, help with academic writing, mentoring and more is also available on campus. Student Services staff, along with professors and resource persons will all be on hand to offer students an inspiring experience, focusing on their well-being and academic success.

Here are samples of some of the planned activities for students at the University:
