

Wounded Warriors Doctoral Scholarship in Military and Veteran Health Research (Information disponible seulement en Anglais)

More Canadian research is needed to address the health and wellbeing issues over the life-course of individuals and families of those who serve and have served, as related to occupational exposures, experiences, and environment. These may include health consequences – physical, mental, and social – that are unique in their nature, magnitude, long-term effects, delayed presentation, and trans-generational implications. Preference is given to students studying at one of the CIMVHR's 43 partner Universities; to Canadian students; and/or to reservists, where applicable.

Deadline: September 4th, 2019;

Amount: $18,000/ year for 2 years;

Eligibility Criteria:

- Must be registered as a full-time student, entering the 3rd year of a Doctoral program, or in the final 2 years of a PhD program or a combined MA/PhD, fast track or direct entry PhD program;
- Must be doing research that considers the unique context of service and that is of significant potential importance of improving the physical, mental health, or wellbeing on military of Veteran populations or their families (the beneficiary populations);
- Have completed their comprehensive exams;
- Have submitted ethics approval for their research;
- Submit two written evaluations from referees.

The successful candidate is expected to:

- Attend Forum 2019 in Ottawa to receive the award (travel expenses incurred are eligible scholarship);
- Meet wounded Veterans to ensure a better understanding of the impact of their work (facilitated by Wounded Warriors);
- Complete a Progress Report Form at the end of Year 1. Year 2 funding is contingent on this report;
- Submit an abstract to present research at an MVHR Forum in the final year of their PhD, and acknowledge CIMVHR and Wounded Warriors Canada as sources of funding.
